DAYTON, Ohio, Jan. 8, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Woolpert announced today that it has acquired Waller, Todd & Sadler Architects, an architecture firm located in Virginia Beach, Va. This addition bolsters the architecture, engineering and geospatial (AEG) firm's design and planning capabilities.

Woolpert President and CEO Scott Cattran said, as part of the firm's strategic plan, Woolpert was looking for an architecture firm with strong leadership, management and technical resources.

"We conducted a nationwide search for an architecture firm with an impeccable reputation for quality design and excellence in customer service," Cattran said. "We wanted a firm that would expand our military architecture portfolio to the Navy and Army and add to our growing portfolio of projects with the Air Force, education and athletic institutions, as well as municipal clients. We found all of this with Waller, Todd & Sadler Architects."

Like Woolpert, Waller, Todd & Sadler Architects has worked extensively with municipalities, the Armed Forces, educational institutions and commercial clients.

"We are thrilled to be teaming with the nation's premier AEG firm to continue the delivery of quality products and services to our clients," said David Isbell, Waller, Todd & Sadler president. "Woolpert's talented, forward-thinking staff affords us the essential resources to further our support locally, as well as expand our worldwide reach."

Founded in Dayton in 1911, Woolpert has more than 800 employees and 28 offices nationwide. Waller, Todd & Sadler Architects was founded in 1956 and employs 34.
